Media Influence on Teenagers

Media influence on teenagers is really disappointing. Teenagers have many ways and many options to change positively, but they do not use those valuable options. Some of these positive options are to stay in school, finish, and be someone really important. They should study hard, and do their best. This will help when they grow up.

There are many problems with media influence on teenagers. Teenagers are always on the Internet, watching TV, on cellphones, and playing video games. What's wrong about these activities is that teenagers have too much freedom, and they don't want to do their homework, or chores.
