

Bullying

Bullying is really sad. Why do bullies waste their time and life picking on somebody else? Maybe they are just jealous of the kid who has something better to do in life. It's mean and cruel to do this kind of horrible thing to innocent people. I've seen bullying, but I didn't say anything because I didn't want to get involved.

What do you even get from bullying? Nothing exactly, so bullies should get a life, and stop with the name calling because it hurts. For all the "wannabe bullies", imagine having no support from anybody. It would be the end for you, and that's how kids being bullied feel. They feel alone, sad and depressed. Feeling the wrong things makes you want to die.

There are some kids who will even hang themselves, and it's really sad for the family and friends to know what the reason was. These kids don't talk about what's happening to them because they're scared. Talking about it can make you think that you have somebody with you (support). I hope all this bullying stops soon. I don't want to hear about somebody hanging himself. It just tears apart everybody's heart.
