

Even though I am not old enough to vote, I would vote for Barack Obama. I think Obama would change the way the Government is running the United States of America. I think that he is very diligent for the USA. I also think that he has a good plan for people who don't have Medicare or Medicaid. He has many other good plans for the USA. It is good that Obama is going to make history as the first African-American President. I think Obama is going to be a good President because he looks like he cares about other people, not just himself, and he does not look rude or mean. Even though the President can't change everything, I know Obama will do everything he can.
