

I want Barack Obama to be our President because he wants to help people to act fast before something happens to us. He wants to make the war over so we don't lose more people in the war and so they can come back home and see their families. Plus he wants to help those people who are immigrants who have trouble when the police take them back to Mexico and their kids stay in the United States by themselves. This is one of the biggest problems we have ever had. Plus John McCain won't do what he's saying because he'll be like Bush. So, I hope Obama wins.
