

Everybody has a different opinion about Barack Obama being President. In my opinion, I think he should be President because he looks like he would be a good one. He is always talking about helping us. He says he could help the immigrants to have papers so they could be legal in the United States. And I like this because I think that immigrants should be allowed to come here to work. Another reason why I think Obama should be President is because he looks like a good person. I also think he could make change. He would also make history because he would be the first African-American, if elected.
