

In my opinion, I think Barack Obama should be elected President. He is the type of person who gives back to the people, and makes it easier for people like us. Obama also runs a good campaign. He talks about things that mean a lot to the people of the United States. He wants to bring the troops home from war, and I agree with him. It's too dangerous because our troops are getting killed and injured over in Iraq. If you want a strong and independent President, vote for Barack Obama because he cares.
