

Computers are used in many different ways like entertainment, business, or for classroom work. Computers are very useful. I think that if we didn't have computers, the work that we have would be harder because computers have become the easiest and fastest tools to search information.

Many people today are working and searching for important things such as history. History is one of the most popular topics that people search for today, especially when you are in college because you are given more work to do about history. In my opinion, the fastest and the easiest way to study history is by searching a website and finding a specific title of what you are looking for.

I think that studying history on the computer is not hard. It is very easy unless you have work to do without the computer.
