

Creating the future we want

The future I want in my life is to study to go to college. Then I would like to study to be an architect so I can design buildings. This is my career goal. I see my future really bright, and I expect the best at what I do. If I don't succeed, I would not be able to live with myself because I have already made a commitment to do this.

I will accomplish this because when I commit to something, I do it. Even though it's hard, I will do it. I also have a backup plan. I could become a soccer player. But first, I have to study, and do well in all my classes.

I'm in the eighth grade, and I still have a few more school years ahead of me. I want to be the best that I can be. Everything I do has to be in first place. In order to accomplish this takes hard work. Life is not easy, this is why you have to be the best at what you do all the time. I like being smart.

It is not only about education, but also communicating to the outside world. Other people in the world can help you with your studies, maybe even your friends. I am also planning to study in college. I like Harvard University. I would like to get my Master's degree in Fine Arts. All of this is creating a better future for me and for the world.

I am planning to be the best architect in the world. I would also want to create a big building for a really good company. But to be an architect, you need to pass all the classes from school. To assure that this is going to happen, I am going to need help from my friends and teachers. If they help me, I would be grateful, and I would try to return the favor.

This is the new generation of people that are the future of the world. This means there would be better adults in the world.

Martin Resendiz, 8th Grade, RYSS