GUN VIOLENCE IN SCHOOLS

What is gun violence?

Gun violence defined literally means the use of a firearm to threaten or inflict violence or harm. Gun violence may be broadly defined as a category of violence and crime committed with the use of a firearm. Gun violence in schools is when someone goes in to a school, armed, and starts killing innocent kids or teenagers for some unknown or known reason.

Causes of gun violence

All violence is not the same. Some violence is due to impulsive behavior, some due to the disinhibiting by drugs or alcohol, some due to serious mental illness, some to hate, revenge, or retribution. How any individual comes to kill is a complex combination of circumstances, and it is almost impossible to know exactly "why" for any given act of violence. We will never really know the full answer to "why" for the shootings at schools.

How to stop it

One of the easy ways to stop gun violence is to talk to children about it and help them understand what to do in case it happens.

Schools can build up fences, always lock the door from the outside. Have devices to communicate with each other. And teacher can take care of their students at all times.
