

Computers have existed for a long time, since 1936 up to this day. And most of the things that people look for is about history, life or other things about history. That's the reason why computers for me are really important because without them, this world would be something else. Also with the technology we have now, computers are very useful. A lot of people use computers mainly for researching the history of ancient things. They sometimes research for past humans' lives. Computers help a lot because in the future, you could look up about history that happened in this present day we are in right now! Also, computers are very helpful in many different ways like whenever you need to find information about a class project. I am only using this sentence as an example. That's how computers can be helpful in many ways and can be very important.

Kimberly Herrera, 7th grade, Raul Yzaguirre School For Success