

Since 1936, life has changed for many people. In fact, for all people today. I think that computers have made history. They have made history because they have changed the way people and kids study today. They help kids do research on certain projects. They also help adults finish college. More than 30% of teen girls have dropped out of school due to the fact of them being pregnant. Computers would help them finish college at home by using the Internet instead of going to school.

They also help a lot of our heroes do their jobs. For example, they help firefighters do their job by detecting where a fire has occurred. They also help policemen. They help them by tracking down people who have home arrest and who can harm other people and by locating where there has been a robbery or a murder. And the most important heroes that computers help are the nurses and doctors. Most computer devices help them keep people alive. They also help them with their decisions. They also help people who have cancer by giving them their chemotherapy.
