

Computers have something to do with history because they are now using computers to search for history and other things. Or maybe computers are used as history because we use them to discover things. History is sometimes about war or what we have gone through in this world, and computers are used for many things to learn and have fun with. Computers are used for many things. They are not toys or things that you can destroy. Computers are here to learn and see with, things that are new in the world and history.
