

Computers are good for history. They have been around for a long time, since 1936. Computers are good because you can do research about stuff and history. Also, they are good for studying because you can do research for what you need. You can also find jobs by using the Internet. I also think computers make history because of the Internet. If I want to learn about history, I'll go to the Internet and do research. Many computers are mainly for history research and some for gaming like the above picture.

Yosthman Sandoval, 7th grade, Raul Yzaguirre School For Success

