

Many people say that computers are very helpful in our every day life. But not everyone has that same opinion. Many people might think that you are wasting your time just sitting at a computer. I agree with both opinions, because computers can be a waste of time. You're letting your life just pass you by while you sit there looking for games or on Myspace.com or even Facebook.com, but I'm not saying that it's bad to have these things because I personally like doing them. What I'm trying to say is that you can do these things, but not be addicted to them. Computers are useful for school projects or just plain homework. If someone were to tell you that they are a waste of time, ask them that if they are such a waste of time, then why did Konrad Zuse from Germany make this device? You can also tell them that people use the computer for everything, and people with businesses use them all the time. And they've been used for these kinds of things since 1936. Nobody has the right to tell you how to waste your time on the computer, except for your parents and teachers.
