

A lot of people use computers to learn. You can learn many things on computers because computers are a great source of education. To learn history on the Internet, you can go to many websites that have information about history. History is very important, and you should learn about it. If you don't really want to try really hard, you can just go to the Internet and write the subject in which you would like to know about. You can go to Google or Yahoo. When you go there, they will have many links to what you want to research about. There are some websites like Wikipedia that are not that accurate because any person can actually go and edit it. So when you research, go to different websites so you can see what they have in common and what they don't. If you don't really like computers, you can just look for a book, and it will tell you where you can find it. Computers contribute a lot in learning, so if you need to know more about history, just go and do research online.

Jessica Zuniga, 7th grade, Raul Yzaguirre School for Success